Underlying demand drivers remain strong many seniors will struggle to fund a comfortable retirement

AFSA Super Guru – figures from September Quarter 2017. Pension represents base rate.

Pension changes supportive of model

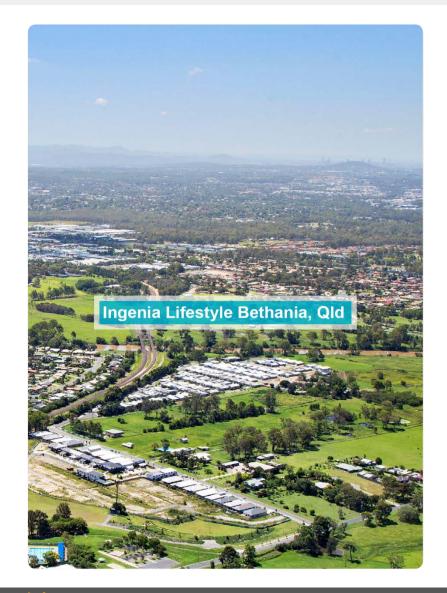

From 1 July eligible seniors can contribute up to $300,000 ($600,000 for a couple) into their super from the sale of their primary place of residence

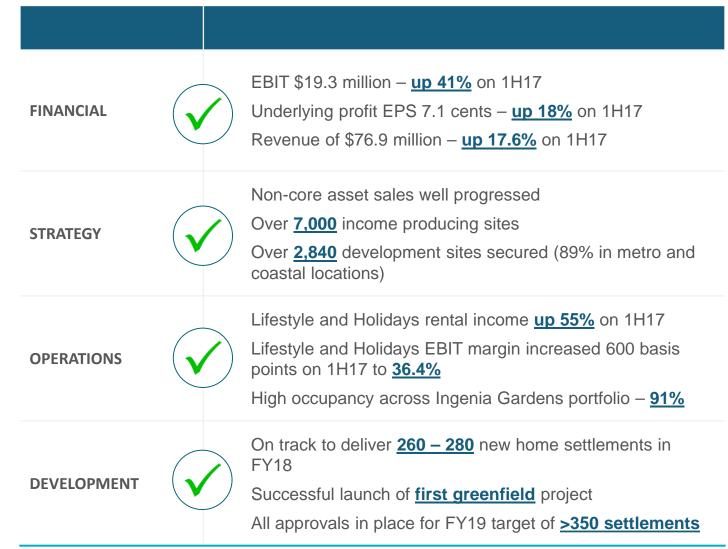

- Commonly referred to as 'downsizer contributions'
- Need to be over 65 and selling a current or former primary place of residence owned for minimum 10 years
- Most likely to benefit self-funded retirees who have a level of income and assets that precludes them from receiving a full of part pension
- No need to satisfy age criteria or work test (provided >65)

Positive for lifestyle communities as enables self-funded retirees to downsize out of the family home and structure their affairs to maximise superannuation income
